

SHARE new mexico™

Carnelian Center

Dixon is a small Northern New Mexico artist colony, located in the picturesque Embudo Valley, which boasts a beautiful river with a strong and agriculturally active acequia (irrigation waterway) system. A number of local Churches and a hand-full of non-profit organizations, help to support and strengthen the Dixon community and it's surrounding areas. Some of the local non-profits include the Dixon Arts Association, the Embudo Valley Library, Dixon CO-OP Market and Dixon's own short wave radio station. All this plus the community's art galleries and bed & breakfasts make Dixon home to long-time residents, a destination for weekend getaways and a new home for those looking for a simpler way of life. The Dixon community's intent to create non-profit health based organizations has been long-standing throughout the years. Many groups and individuals have cultivated ideas ranging from Healing Spas, Retirement Homes, Spiritual Retreats and HMO based organizations. A few years ago the vision of a Non-Profit Holistic Health Center began to solidify for the group of us, who have coalesced our like-minded visions into what has unified to become 'The Carnelian Center'. Our goal is to finally bring the Dixon community's long-time dream of affordable, holistic health care, to fruition.

Details

Services

Arts & Culture Community Economic Development

Locations

*PO Box 452
Dixon, NM 87527*

Phone: 505-579-9630

Parent Organization

Carnelian Center

To provide the community with affordable holistic health care services while nurturing the individual through art, education and cultural integration. Our vision is to create healing in a beautiful, peaceful setting of therapeutic pools with respect for the ecosystem and the preciousness of water.

219 State Road 75
Dixon, NM 87527

Mailing:

PO Box 452
Dixon, NM

Phone: (505) 579-9630

Type: Nonprofit

EIN: 711005154

<http://carneliancenter.org/>